

Who We Are

The California Stewardship Network is an alliance of fifteen uniquely diverse regional organizations committed to the economic, environmental and social wellbeing of our regions and our state. These regions represent powerful innovation centers where business, community and government leaders are creating new pathways and new partnerships to achieve collective impacts throughout the state.

- We believe in a stewardship approach to transformation.
- We believe Thriving Regions Lead to a Thriving State.
- We are the Co-Creator and Co-Presenter of the California Economic Summit in partnership with California Forward committed to the advancement of steward ethic, triple bottom line impact and stewardship-based policy reform.

Our Commitment

- To grow the circle of steward leaders and teams across California through state-wide Exchanges, Emerging Leader interactions and legislative engagement.
- To develop innovative regional solutions, through collaboration on initiatives, systems change and projects across regional boundaries.
- To be a productive partner with state and local government, working together to identify and implement specific changes that will increase regional innovation, collaboration and results.

What We Ask

- We ask that you and your organization start from a stewardship ethic, thinking first from the lens of a citizen responsible to the whole, then align resources to achieve maximal and sustainable results.
  - We ask that when contemplating initiatives or projects, you consider Triple Bottom Line (economic, environmental and social) outcomes.
  - We ask that you join us in engaging California state and local governments to partner with us as regional leaders, to unlock the full potential of the State's regions through sharing and collaboration.
